GRAND DUKE REPORTS

Russian Commander in Field Reports Retreat Across Dnieper River, Where Troops Make Determined Stand.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, May 5.—The Russian report concerning the recent fighting in western Galicia are being accepted by British military critics as reducing the German claims of victory in this battle to more just proportions. Following his custom Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in chief in the field, has not hesitated to admit a reverse and confirmed the German statement that his antagonists have succeeded in breaking across the Dnieper river, but the Grand Duke adds he is holding them fast on the bank of the stream and he seemed to intimate he has little anxiety concerning the ultimate outcome of the fierce fighting which has been going on in this region for a week.

Readjust British Line.
It is reported that the readjustment of the British line in Flanders with the consequent abandonment of several positions east of Ypres marks the extent of advantages won by Germans from her victory between Ypres and Dixmude. By straightening this line, however, Sir John French, British commander in chief, has cut off a salient point which threatened military disadvantage should the Germans attempt another thrust with reinforcements said to be rushing through Belgium. All the German attacks thus far according to British and French official statements, were shattered on this new line.

The news from Gallipoli is considered reassuring setting forth as it does that the allied good positions gained after the first onslaught upon the Turks during landing operations. Subsequent German and Turkish attacks have been repulsed with noteworthy directions.

Scandinavian ship owners are suffering more than are the British and the newspapers of Norway and Sweden have referred in sarcastic terms to the "bravery" in torpedoing all Swedish and Norwegian ships, she meets.

Report English Losses.
Berlin, May 5.—Official statement from headquarters says the British continue their retreat with heavy losses in the direction of the Bridgehead. Situations sharply to the east of Ypres, Van Heule, Katterbach, and Council of here, where were captured and another farm were taken by us.

British Repulse Attack.
Paris, May 5.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a statement on the progress of hostilities reading:
"To north of Ypres the Germans delivered an attack against the left flank of the British front. They were repulsed and taken in the flank by the French artillery and they suffered serious losses."
"Nothing has been reported from the remainder of the front."

U. S. COTTON BOAT ARRIVES AT BREMEN

American Sailing Vessel Has Exciting Time Before Reaching German Port.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, wireless to Sayville, May 5.—Overseas agency today says:
"A special dispatch received here from Bremen says the Weser Zeitung reports that Captain David of the American sailing vessel, the Brynhilda, with a cargo of cotton, had arrived at Bremen from New York."
The captain declared he sailed around Scotland, in the North sea, was stopped by a British cruiser. The British commander sent a detail of armed marines and a large quantity of ammunition on board the Brynhilda and declaring if the ship was stopped by the German submarine the marines would shoot the German ship and perforating the tower of the submarine with bullets make it impossible to submerge. Captain David protested and threatened. Finally the British cruiser took him into Abbeville, whence he was permitted to proceed for Bremen.

ANNIHILATE ENTIRE TURKISH REGIMENT

Dispatch From Mytilene Indicates Important Victory for Allies' Land Forces.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, May 5.—A dispatch from Mytilene to the Havas agency says a regiment of Turkish troops was annihilated during fighting at the Dardanelles last night and the allies captured 1,000 more prisoners to Tenedos and Moudros.
The dispatch also says a squadron of warships of the allies again bombarded forts at Dardanelles and Turkish encampments on the coast.

War News Summary.

Further striking victories of Austro-German forces were announced today by the Berlin war office. It is also stated success was won in France and Belgium. This report makes it appear the allies have entered offensive operations both in the eastern and western front such as has been undertaken simultaneously during the war.

The Austro-German attack was extended further to the east, where the Russians have been struggling for months to break through the Carpathians into Hungary.

The German announcement says the third fortified line of the Russians was pierced and they were defeated along the entire front. In France and Belgium several German attacks have been made successfully.

Desperate fighting is in progress further east of Dnieper river and the Carpathian front. In the region of Strive it is said one hill changed hands three times in a single battle and 1,200 more Austrians were captured by the Russians.

Unofficial reports from Saloniki say two Turkish aeroplanes which attacked the allied fleet at the Dardanelles were brought down by fire of the warships. The aeroplanes, manned by Germans, attacked the fleet with bombs, but no damage was done.

Relations between Bulgaria and Turkey apparently have become more uncertain. Turkey is sending troops hastily to the neighborhood of Adrianople, after having withdrawn them for use on Gallipoli Peninsula.

Austria's answer to Italy's minimum demands is expected tomorrow and it is believed in Rome its character will determine the course of Italy. Notwithstanding the king's decision to remain away from the celebration of the Garibaldi memorial, it is now believed in Rome there was no essential modification of the situation.

No name was given but the list here of the Santa Anna shows that Frederick Van Dyne, American consul at Lyons, France, had engaged passage on the Santa Anna.

Washington, May 5.—Frederick Van Dyne, a resident of this city and American consul to Lyons, had been at his home here for several months in ill health and sailed on the Santa Anna. Neither the state department nor his family have received any advice today of his reported disappearance, but it is feared it was true.

List of the holders of the stock in the Journal company compiled from books supplied by Mr. Barnes, showed the former chairman of the republican state committee and members of his family held majority of stock. Counsel for Col. Roosevelt planned to have him come on the stand later in the day.

Mr. Winchester said these commissions were paid to the Journal annually. He said he never saw Barnes in the Lyon plant.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Mineola, N. Y., May 5.—Celia Coleman, the negro maid who was the star witness against Mrs. Florence Carman in the first trial for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey last June, was ready to testify in Mrs. Carman's second trial today.

The defense awaited the production of the witness by whom the prosecution hopes to prove Mrs. Bailey was killed in daylight instead of after dark, as has been contended in the first trial. This was the only new feature promised by the state. Evening sessions will be held so as to end the case Saturday.

New Witness Called.
District Attorney Smith lost no time today in placing on "the stand" the state's new witness in the second trial.

NINE TRAWLERS SUNK BY LONE SUBMARINE

FEARS THAT OTHERS MAY HAVE BEEN LOST IN NORTH SEA RAID.

CREWS ESCAPE DEATH

Fishermen Row Eight Hours in Small Boats Before They Are Rescued.—One Craft Escapes After Chase.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, May 5.—Nine trawlers in the bag credited to a German submarine on Monday of this week in a message received here from Hull. So far as is known, no lives were lost in these encounters. According to the crews of the fishing vessels the submarine which wrought this damage is of the newest type. She has an iron cross painted on the conning tower. She ran amuck among the fishing fleet on Monday and sank six trawlers in succession.

Each man coming ashore is exhibiting a huge lump of black bread given him by the crew of the submarine which sent his scow down. The English sailors are preserving these pieces as souvenirs.

Hull, England, May 6.—Three more British trawlers have been added to the list of those blown up by German submarines in the North sea Monday, and it is feared others also were lost as they were shelled and fired upon with rifles by the crew of a submarine. The crews of the trawlers Jolantbe, Hero and Northward Ho have landed here, reporting the destruction of their boats. No lives were lost aboard any of the three.

A Copenhagen dispatch states that while three trawlers were fishing in the North sea a German submarine appeared and ordered them to stop. The crews then took to their boats and rowed away, after which the trawlers were blown up by boarding parties from the submarine. After rowing about for eight hours the fishermen summoned aid by burning articles of clothing which had been attached to oars.

The trawler Hero attempted to escape, but after an exciting chase which lasted an hour the submarine got in close range and opened a sally with rifles, whereupon the skipper of the fishermen stopped and the crew took to small boats.

The trawler Portia has reached Hull after an exciting chase.

WILLIAM KNELL DIES AT MILWAUKEE HOME TODAY

BILL MIGHT HINDER COMMISSION'S WORK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 5.—That the Laing and Everett bills now before the assembly requiring the railroad commission to put all of the evidence used in making a decision into the record would hamstring the work of the commission and render its duties similar to those of an inferior court was the contention made before the assembly committee on judiciary yesterday afternoon by Henry Killilea and W. J. Anderson. Assemblyman Laing said that he believed if the facts used in making an order were incorporated in the evidence subject to rebuttal, there would be fewer appeals. Mr. Killilea pointed out that the very organization of the commission indicated that it was to do a work of investigation and that the Laing and Everett bills would greatly hamper such work and would effectively curtail the work of the commission.

Assemblyman Harrington appeared in favor of his bill to repeal the law creating a divorce counsel. He said that it was a waste of money and that the office should be abolished. Asked by Assemblyman Hedding if he would be willing to impose these duties upon the district attorneys of the state, Assemblyman Harrington said that these attorneys had enough to do for the salaries they were paid.

WISCONSIN ASSEMBLY SAVES DR. MC CARTHY

NELSON BILL ABOLISHING LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE LIBRARY IS KILLED TO DAY.

STATE FACES DEFICIT

Assemblyman Harrington Points Out That Appropriations Exceed Funds Available By $1,297,000.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, May 5.—Measures by Assemblyman Wm. Nelson to abolish the legislative reference library, of which Dr. Charles McCarthy is the official head, and the repeal of the corrupt practices act which compels the filing of expense accounts and limits the amount candidates may spend, were killed in the house today.

State Faces Deficit.
A bill by Assemblyman Bradley of Hudson to repeal a $5,000 appropriation for the physical educational building at La Crosse normal school failed by a vote of 44 to 37. Assemblyman E. A. Everett changed his vote to move a reconsideration of this bill.

This bill was introduced in connection with a discussion of the state financial conditions which Assemblyman George Harrington, member of the joint investigating committee, stated would be made worse if this bill went through. He said in July the treasury would have $3,100,000 and there would be appropriations of $4,370,000 outstanding against it, leaving a deficit of $1,270,000 if all claims were paid. Hence his appeal for economy.

The committee on printing report for passage the new printing board bill under which the investigating committee hopes to effect a saving of $100,000 a year.

Ray Over Budlong Bill.
The Budlong bill for one day's rest in seven for station agents and railroad telegraphers went over for one week when a vote on reconsideration of its enactment will be taken.

After a debate the senate passed the Tompkins bill preventing trust companies from selling securities in its possession to trust estates over which it has no control. The vote was 16 to 1.

Question Over Veto.
A point of order against the legality of reconsidering the vote upon a veto was raised in the senate by Senator Bosshard to the author of anti-tipping bill which the executive vetoed.

Action on Senator Burke's motion to reconsider the vote by which the veto was overruled, postponed for another week.

A committee recommended passage for a bill appropriating $10,000 for a site for hospital for crippled children and occurred in an assembly bill prohibiting sale of cigarettes to minors and licensing dealers who sell to adults.

ENGROSS WAGE BILL AFTER HOT DEBATE: REJECT HANSEN LAW

Baxter Bill Favoring Semi-Payment of Wages Sent to Engrossment—Many Reform Bills Killed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 5.—After an hour of debate the senate sent to engrossment last night, 52 to 15, the Baxter bill providing for the semi-monthly payment of wages for all employees except those of lumbering and logging companies and circus and traveling shows. The bill was opposed by Assemblymen Ellingson, Gretney and Carl Hansen. It was championed by Assemblymen Crosby, Vint and Webster. Crosby said that only the railroad companies were opposed to the bill and that such a law was in successful operation in Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois and New York. He declared the only principle involved was whether the legislature was in favor of the railroad men having their own money and the railroad corporation should have the use of their money for over thirty days.

Assemblyman Gretney sought to amend the bill to exempt mining corporations, but it was rejected. He said as an employer of labor he found that when men are paid punctually they save more money. Mr. Ellingson said it was just such a law as proposed that would drive business out of the state. Those voting in opposition to the bill were Assemblymen Ellingson, Gretney, Hansen, Vint, P. A. Everett, Carl Hansen, Harrington, Heathcote, Kubasta, Lauritzen, Lenz, McGowan, Murphy, Rentz, Schindler and Van Gorden.

After adopting and rejecting several amendments, the assembly finally non-concurred in the Monk bill prohibiting women and girls under 21 from attending dance unless accompanied by parent or guardian, where liquor is sold. Assemblyman Carl Hansen attempted to amend it to raise the age from 21 to 35 years, but dark, Walter Cozens, clerk of assemblyman Frederick Hedding then offered an amendment to reduce the age from 21 to 18, arguing such an amendment was necessary to protect social club organized in many cities. Assemblyman Minkley denounced the bill. It was non-concurred in without a roll call.

Fate of Other Bills.
When the assembly reconvened last night, Assemblyman Gruenewald withdrew his bill, which was on the calendar without recommendation, prohibiting night work by females. Assemblyman Hansen and Budlong made a strenuous attempt to save from defeat the Budlong bill providing for an excise commissioner at a salary of $15,000.

Hansen said the bill was necessary that an excise commissioner would ferret the drug stores and department stores in Milwaukee which were selling the state lottery tickets. Assemblyman Minkley had secured the adoption of an amendment giving the president of the Anti-Saloon league power to appoint the commissioner, who must have the power of a mayor, minister and humane officer, the bill was killed. The assembly also killed the bill authorizing the state board of forestry to give the reservation under certain conditions to islands within the forestry reserve in northern Wisconsin. The measure was opposed by Carl Hansen.

Hansen said the bill was directing the payment of a certain portion of the state trust funds each year, and the Reinhardt bill to change the date of the spring elections from Tuesday to the first Monday in April.

An Expensive Ghost.
Assemblyman Freehoff of La Crosse county championed his bill to repeal the Dunn county ballot law. Assemblyman Carl Hansen favored the bill and denounced the law as an expensive ghost on the statute books. Assemblyman O'Brien of Hamlet said the present law is optional with the counties and should be allowed to remain. The bill was killed by a vote of 5 to 18.

Assemblyman Carl Hansen said he had changed his vote at the last minute in order to move a reconsideration of the bill.

The Harrington bill to repeal the law passed two years ago requiring the state board of normal schools to locate a site for a new normal school in northeastern Wisconsin was sent to engrossment. The bill was on the calendar for indefinite postponement.

Assemblymen Harrington and E. A. Everett favored the passage of the bill. Everett declared there were already ten many normal schools. Assemblyman Julius Benson of Shawano county opposed it.

The assembly engrossed the Budlong bill providing that the same charge shall be made for passenger fares by two or more persons as for one person. The bill was on the calendar for indefinite postponement.

Chicago Italians WOUND A DETECTIVE

Thirteen Suspects Are Held Following Shooting Fray in "Black Hand" District.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, May 5.—Thirteen Italian suspects are being held by the police today as a result of the shooting last night of Detective Sergeant Joseph McGuire by two Italians and the escape of Tony Tilcola, a prisoner whom McGuire and his partner, Detective Sergeant George De Bar, were taking to the police station.

McGuire was shot in the hip. The detectives returned the fire and in the excitement their prisoner escaped. The shooting occurred in the Italian colony on the North Side, the scene of so many so-called black-hand murders. Tilcola was arrested in connection with orders of the new city administration to clean out the black-hand district.

McGuire had not previously been engaged in this class of work and it is believed he was mistaken for De Mar's former partner, Detective Cahill.

WHITE BATTERS DOWN MURPHY IN 7 ROUNDS

Chicago Hebrew Slugger Awarded Decision When Murphy's Brother Calls Halt.—Clabby Defeats McCoy.

Boston, May 5.—Eddie Murphy of Boston was saved from a knockout at the hands of Charlie White, Chicago, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round bout here last night. White battered down Murphy for six rounds with his heavy body punches and left jabs.

In the fifth White put across a combination punch starting with a right over the heart and ending with a wicked left hook to the head. The sixth was but a slaughter, for White knocked Murphy down three times and when the seventh round gong sounded the Boston lightweight was helpless. Appeals by Murphy's brother or to stop the fight when Eddie was down, brought a k. o. decision to White.

Clabby Wins on Points. New York, May 5.—Jimmy Clabby outboxed Al McCoy handily in ten rounds here last night. Clabby's clever infighting had McCoy at sea during the first five rounds. McCoy showed better in the latter rounds but was outpointed in each one by skillful tactics of Clabby.

Dundee to Fight. Cincinnati, O., May 5.—Johnny Dundee, the hard hitting New York lightweight, will meet Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn for ten rounds on May 10 here.

Scotty in Draw. Milwaukee, May 5.—Young Scotty got a draw against Eddie Evers in six rounds here last night, which was the only good fight on the card. Scotty fought his usual rough battle and in the fifth put Evers through the ropes. Johnny Brittle and Eddie Coulton, the heavy bantam, fought ten rounds with Brittle having a big shade. Coulton was handicapped with a broken hand and could not stop the St. Paul "kewpie".

Johnny Kilbane and Ritchie Mitchell have been matched for a ten round bout here on May 1st.

USE FOR AEROPLANE IN HUNTING SEALS

Owners of Sealing Vessels Have Plan to Prevent Recurrence of This Year's Losses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. John's, N. F., May 5.—A novel use of the aeroplane is under consideration by owners of sealing vessels as a result of the failure of the seal hunt this year. It is proposed that two experienced aviators be engaged to visit the east coast and Gulf of St. Lawrence respectively, just before the opening of next season and locate the herds. The information thus obtained would enable the fleet to sail directly for the herds instead of spending much time in searching.

The direct cause of the lack of success in the present season which ended May 1, was the unusually early amount of ice passed along the coast by an abnormal March wind. The sealing steamers, although within sailing distance of the herds, were unable to reach them. The total catch was less than 50,000 pelts, and the loss of vessel owners from the season's operations is estimated at about $250,000.

LOCAL GOLFERS MAY HIRE PROFESSIONAL

Members of Sinnissippi Club Will Meet Tonight to Consider the Proposition.

Members of the Sinnissippi Golf Club will meet at eight o'clock this evening at the Gazette library to consider the question of hiring a professional for the coming season. H. B. Wussaw, formerly employed by the club at Little Rock, Ark., who is an applicant for such a position in Janesville, will be present to discuss the matter with the members. Some of the directors are of the opinion that the employment of such an expert would do much to create a greater interest in the game as it would give an opportunity to novices to secure the best of instruction and old players might get some new tips on the latest phases of the sport. The professional would also assist the games committee in arranging the tournaments and matches. The directors are anxious for a large attendance at the meeting tonight so that the proposition may be fully discussed and a decision reached.

New York, May 5.—There is fire in the eyes of John McGraw and anger in the heart of Harry Hooper and John Foster over the twenty-one player rule that was forced upon the National league this season with malice aforethought, or otherwise, but mainly through the instigation of Barney Dreyfuss. None of the above mentioned trio ever thought enough of the player limit to make it the cause of a general celebration, and they like still Gray since the recent performance of pitcher Chalmers of Philadelphia.

For two years this same Chalmers vainly attempted to break into the game as a regular Giant. Last fall he went out during practice sessions and showed Scout Kinsella a lot of things that made the ivory-comber real jovious, but when Kinsella would have impressed his own valuation of Chalmers on his boss, he succeeded as rapidly as a German getting the English viewpoint on the cause of the Biggest Thing in all the World.

Hence, when the twenty-one player rule forced McGraw to look around for someone to let go, "Little Napoleon" fixed his orb on Chalmers, whom he had taken South this spring after every one else refused to give the youngster a chance. The New York B. B. club, Inc., paid all the training expenses and to show his appreciation, Chalmers worked hard and got in excellent shape. Chalmers' spring training showed in the box score which recorded that the Giants made two hits and that seven of them fanned. And New York is sadly in want of pitchers! We ventured to predict that there will be no twenty-one player rule next year.

A number of other National league teams have felt the pinch of the same regulation and these who figured that it might cause the quality of the baseball played by Tenor's organization to deteriorate were not much more wrong than those who thought Germany had a great army.

The famous covered tennis courts at Auteuil, the scene of many French international championships, are now closed as military hospital for the allies. It is worthy of note that the organizer of the hospital, and the head nurse as well, is Mlle. Masson, former woman champion tennis player of France.

Tom McGuire, Federal league pitcher last season, has decided to give up the diamond for the typewriter. He has accepted a position with a newspaper about to be started at Prince George, British Columbia, and will write baseball, if there is any.

Pitcher Byron Houck, who quit organized ball to join the Brooklyn Feds, claims to have signed for two years, but the Brooklyn club has dropped him, or is trying to. Houck, however, says he is going to report to the club and demand that it live up to its contract with him.

Only six or seven weeks more, and we shall begin to have some dependable opinion of the strength of the various clubs in the arena and the various new players. Forming any sort of an opinion this early is leaning on a frail reed.

Pitcher Marty Walsh, brother of the famous Ed Walsh, worked so hard in a game with the Tip Tops recently that he broke a ligament in his arm. Since then he has been going easy and the arm is reported coming back into shape finely.

A scout of a major league club recently stated that it was well, impossible to sign a college star of real merit without first doing business with the coach of the team. This is about right. A collegian cannot be blamed for consulting some one who has had experience, but he can be blamed for asking for exorbitant salaries with non-release clauses before he has shown that he can fill the bill. Major league clubs are steering clear of collegians just when the game has reached an advanced stage for this reason.

Walter Johnson is to become an author. He is arranging to write a book on his experiences in baseball, in which he will give many interesting anecdotes.

While no one will take the spurt of the Cincinnati Reds seriously until the season is considerably older, for the reason that the team has so often proved itself a morning glory, there is good reason for believing that Charley Herzog is going to upset the dope and be much more prominent in the present race with his Reds than any one figured. The team seems to have been greatly improved, particularly behind the bat, where Herzog is better fortified than any of his rivals. Doolin, Wingo and Clarke make a formidable catching department, and there is nothing more important for a winning team.

A few former Giants who are still doddering along and occasionally giving imitation of real players: Gowdy, Rudolph, Becker, Demaree, Bescher, Ames, Groh and Herzog.

Heinie Groh of the Cincinnati club is hitting the ball hard this season. He has a batting average well above .400 and the averages last week showed him leading the league in batting. Heinie is making a good all-round showing, and this helps to explain while the Reds are now traveling in the first division.

GROH HELPS REDS KEEP HIGH PLACE

Heinie Groh of the Cincinnati club is hitting the ball hard this season. He has a batting average well above .400 and the averages last week showed him leading the league in batting. Heinie is making a good all-round showing, and this helps to explain while the Reds are now traveling in the first division.

WHAT DEPRECIATION IS

Depreciation is a word used by many people because it sounds well, and is used by many more who do not realize how broad a field it covers. Everyone understands that there is depreciation in a coal or iron mine; that the value of the mineral in the ground will decrease every year according to the amount of material taken out. Everyone also understands that it is meant by wear and tear; but it is not so evident that if a piece of machinery stands idle it will deteriorate even more than if it were in operation.

Locomotive standing on a side track for a month will depreciate more than if it were in use for a year. If a steam engine is not looked after it will rust; while if it is looked after the attendance costs money. In the steel business depreciation by obsolescence looms larger than depreciation by wear and tear; and we may say that a machine, or apparatus, or furnace, becomes obsolete in ten or fifteen years. In cases where numerous where mills and machinery have been in operation much longer than this without any changes, but instances are also numerous where they have been found out of date in a much less time.

A steel works in Eastern Pennsylvania built a Bessemer plant in 1888, and in thirteen years it was abandoned. A new Bessemer was started and twelve years afterward it was entirely remodeled; it then ran about fifteen years and was abandoned. The first open hearth plant did not run ten years before it was torn down to the ground; then four different open hearth plants were built in succession, each of which was abandoned after ten or fifteen years of operation. Two steel casting plants, one of only five to ten years before they were replaced by a new plant. When the works were first started steam hammers were used to reduce the ingots to blooms, but these hammers were relegated to the scrap heap in about seven years. The same story could be told of every steel works in this country. It is not always possible to anticipate this kind of depreciation. The directors at the end of the year, may conclude that some department has outlived its usefulness and decide to tear it down and build something else in its place. One of our big steel works has thus written off over ten million dollars in two years, and this by right should have appeared on the cost sheets.

There is a steady stream of money running away every minute, night and day. Sundays and holidays, it is running away whether the plant is running full time or only half time, or not running at all. In order to cover depreciation we should write off each year ten per cent of the cost of the machinery into the original outlay has been cancelled. This should appear on the cost sheet; it does so appear on many accurate books, but unfortunately on many other books—H. H. Campbell, in The Engineering Magazine for May.

Depreciation is as much a part of the cost, in manufacturing, as the pay roll and the fact that it is not always so regarded has been the cause of many failures. The life of almost every piece of machinery is less than a decade. If it did not wear out it becomes obsolete because of improvements.

This is one of the problems which organized labor never takes into account. The well equipped factory, running like clock work, is more attractive than the scrap heap, and so the latter commands no attention. The men who lay awake nights, worried over payments coming due on new machinery, are neither labor agitators nor labor organizers. They know nothing about an eight hour day, but are content if they can keep the wheels moving, and meet competition.

There will be a better understanding when employers recognize the fact that depreciation is constantly going on, and that capital is constantly demanded to make good the losses thus created.

THE WINTER CROPS.

For many months past Young America has been struggling along with the school work for which it honestly has not real use. But the unkind parents insist upon it. Little or no attention has been paid to them perhaps in many a home, the school room has not been visited, the progress of the pupils not exceptionally noted beyond signing the monthly report cards or something of that nature. Now that spring has come and the children are putting more energy into their play and their work why not make an inspection for yourself. Simply to satisfy yourself and your convictions. In the school rooms and playgrounds where your children spend the better part of their days. Become acquainted with the work and the play they are doing and you will be surprised at the genuine pleasure displayed by both teachers and the students themselves. You would not think of not visiting your factory or your place of business. You would visit your orchard, your fields quick enough, yet the school children are the most important crop this nation raises and often the most neglected. Of course, we know the teachers and instructors are doing their best but a little personal interest would encourage them as well as the children so why not give them the time?

WORDS OF WARNING

The Wall Street Journal issues words of warning to investors who are contemplating purchasing stocks that have become suddenly inflated by the advent of foreign orders for war supplies. It does not want the general public to blame Wall Street for their disaster if their fingers are burned later on when these stocks drop in value. It says that it is high time for a word of warning in the matter of war orders as affecting the prices of industrial stocks. Undoubtedly some large orders have been placed and with continuance of the war more will come. But their value, especially in permanent advantage, already tends to be absurdly over-discounted.

If the war terminates in the autumn, what will be the net result to the corporations which have embarked in this business, and have not done enough of it to pay for the ordnance plants which can only, by expensive reconstruction, be changed to take the use of peace? The business is highly speculative one, and represents in principle a heavy bet on the continuance of the war.

How different is the policy of Charles M. Schwab. The Bethlehem Steel Co. is doing the largest business in this kind of war supply, and has, moreover, been doing it longer than the other companies which are now venturing now. But Mr. Schwab declines to regard this as a permanent source of income. He has $40,000,000 of bonds to consider; and he knows well enough that the great problem of the not far distant future for his company will be the adaptation of its ordnance plants to peaceful purposes.

This is the correct policy for any industrial management, and a speculative public which takes a conservative and far-sighted attitude has only itself to blame if it gets its fingers hurt. It will, of course, blame Wall Street or anybody but its silly self.

It is perhaps not unnatural that there should be a tendency to overdo a return to prosperity, even of this risky character. But doubtless American Woolen Company's management knows the difference between a soldier in the trenches using up twelve suits a year, and the same soldier returned to civil life contenting himself with two or less, when he has to pay for them out of his own pocket.

A PREDICTION.

Leah's Weekly says: After over two years of investigation, the Interstate Commerce Commission has dismissed the inquiry into the affairs of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. It has been discovered suddenly that to complete an inquiry going into the history, financial operation, rules, regulations and practices of all telephone and telegraph companies would cost a very large amount of money and yield no advantages in return. It is reassuring to find some attention, at last, being paid to the wasting of the public funds in unnecessary and uncalled for investigation, not only by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the ridiculous Industrial Trades Commission, but also by the Department of Justice. We have said, and we repeat it again, that the time will come when the people of this country, restored to sanity and enjoying once more the fruits of a common prosperity, will look back with amazement and incredulity at the era of trust-busting, railroad-smashing and destructive legislation from which we are now, at last, apparently emerging.

The question is, can shoplifters from an adjacent city in a nearby state come into Beloit and Janesville, take their pick of the stock of goods and even after arrested and the goods recovered, escape punishment for their offense? If so why fine a poor man hawking here in his work one dollar, and costs for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk or give a first time in court drunk ninety days. Merely pertinent questions.

Teaching the school children the love of nature and bird life is having its result in the number of song birds that now make the city their home. They are increasing in numbers and varieties each year, and know that they are immune from persecution, except by cats and other birds. Strange how these little feathered visitors discover that we are welcome so quickly.

Chicago is due for a good shaking up in its police department. It is about time that the second largest city in the United States wakes to its responsibility that confronts it and while every new broom sweeps clean it is to be hoped the city can be kept clean for some time to come.

Thus far no one has stepped forward and taken steps to close the "joints" down in South Janesville. Perhaps after something terrible has happened the public will wake to the responsibility of the situation. It took a murder to rouse certain interests in Janesville into activity.

Milwaukee is fast coming to the center as a community where criminals can escape detection and the police officials are at a loss to gain clues of crimes committed.

Grimbling.

It is the easiest thing in the world to be dissatisfied. Anyone can do it, as the phrase goes, without thinking. But those who really think must agree with Amiel, the philosopher. He counsels thus: "Despite not your situation. In it you must act, suffer and conquer. From every point on earth we are equally near to heaven and the infinite."

The Moral Lesson.
One night I went to a brand new play. It was a problem and preaching blended. Some people thought it was quite risqué. And the moral lesson was splendid. Before the play was ended, But it showed the fate of vice and death. And the moral lesson was splendid.

Concerning the Movies.
Not being in the movie game, I naturally think of hundreds of ways in which the pictures could be improved. This scene would show the burglar being scared away from his midnight repast. He is afterwards identified by the fingerprints he has left all over a hard-boiled egg in taking the shell off. During the intermission at the movies the organ played a selection and displayed the vox humana stop. After it was over she turned to the particular him and remarked, "Isn't that grand! Just do not get that vox humana sound."

Whadd'ye Mean—White?
Headline in an esteemed contemporary: NEGRO AND NEGROES ARE TAKEN AS WHITE SLAVERS.

Almost Speechless.
A headline says: "More Turk Forth Silenced." In other words, they are making the unspeakable Turk still more unspeakable.

Right to Be Angry.
Jones (to his grocer)—You seem angry, Mr. Brown.
Brown—I am. The inspector of weights and measures has just been in.
Jones—Ha, ha! He caught you giving 15 ounces to the pound, did he?

Brown—Worse than that. He said I'd been giving 17.
The Retort Courteous.
"Have you any dates?" asked the lady of the grocerman over the telephone.
"No, madam. I haven't," he replied, "and I am not making any. I am a decent married man."

Hard to Believe.
"I was outspoken in my sentiments at the club today," said Mrs. Garrison to her husband, the other evening.
"With a look of astonishment," he replied, "I can't believe it, my dear. Who outspoke you?"

OH, YES, CERTAINLY!
Down east the socialists are pulling a new drink known as the Billy Sundae.
We know a drink that is twice as refreshing as a Billy Sundae. It is the Georgade.

Nothing to It.

Not a bit of it. Neither did Joshua nervously watch Roosevelt at Armageddon for fear the later great captain would find fault with the way he defeated the Canaanites.

We Know Where They Can Loan Some.

From the April bank report: "The fear of a wholesale liquidation of American securities by European owners is gradually passing. So far as the mere supply of money is concerned, our situation is improving week by week and the crop has already been heard in more than one section of the country that the banks are loaded with money which they cannot loan to advantage. Even the condition must right itself as the crop season goes forward and as the securities market improves and its activity increases."

WORK WIRELESS UNDER SEA

French Boats, Seven Miles Apart, Transmit Submarine Message—Apparatus on All Vessels.

Interesting experiments have been carried out with submarine and wireless telegraphy, by the submarine flotilla of Cherbourg. By means of submarine bells messages were conveyed quite distinctly to the battleship Bouvines by four submarines, each at a distance of seven miles. As a result of this experiment the minister of marine has given instructions that all submarines shall be provided with these bells. The submersible Prizial was also successful in signaling to the Bouvines by wireless telegraphy, all the vessels met by her between St. Wazat, Cape de la Hague and Cherbourg, and announcing her arrival in sight of the forts of Cherbourg. French submarines will in future be provided with wireless telegraphy apparatus.

Is played by a man who is a master of the instrument. When the orchestra was first announced, some of our patrons bewailed the fact that Mr. MacFarland, who was "so beautifully adequate" was to be obscured. But after they had heard the orchestra a few times they were enthusiastic, realizing that a real artist cannot be obscured—the quality of MacFarland's work is just as striking when he is in company with other real musicians as when he is alone.

EARLY SEASON SHOWS MANY SURPRISES; MUCH BASEBALL DOPE IS BEING UPSET

Upsetting the dope, a popular phase of our national pastime, has been greatly enjoyed in the big leagues thus far this season. The Detroit Tigers and the renovated Phillies are stirring up quite a row, while the Braves, Giants and others expected to set a pace have shown little pep. How long such things will continue cannot be told, but it is entertaining the fans while it does.

If You Wear Lace-Front Corsets Then You Should Wear

WARNER'S Rust-Proof CORSETS

The thin double rust-proof boning used in Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets is ideal for lace-front styles. Most lace-front models have so much boning, etc., at the front that they are boxy and clumsy. Warner's thin double boning lightens the weight and gives added flexibility. It will not set or break.

The new models shape perfectly in lines of current fashions and fit with a comfort you will appreciate. The patented protector beneath the lacing is one feature alone that distinguishes them for health and comfort.

We will appreciate the opportunity to show these Warner models to you, because we know that you will like them, and we want you to know the correct service that we offer.

When The Teeth Appear

Everybody gets two sets of teeth. When a baby is about six months old its first tooth shows up. This is the first tooth of the first set. Gradually more teeth appear, until the first set is complete. There are twenty teeth in this set—ten above and ten below. They are called the temporary teeth.

At about six years of age the first tooth of the second set appears. It is called the permanent tooth. It is larger than the temporary tooth and is shaped differently. It is the first tooth of the second set. It is the first tooth of the second set. It is the first tooth of the second set.

INQUIRE INTO SANITY OF AGED FARM WOMAN

State Line Claimants Seek Asylum

Order for Mrs. Martha Isaacson.

—Jury Trial.

Testimony relative to the mental condition of Mrs. Martha Isaacson, a woman residing near Beloit, was heard today by Judge Field in county court. Edward Meyers, a farmer, of the town of Manchester, is one of the main claimants. Mrs. Isaacson is well advanced in years and has lived on the property over forty years.

Mrs. Isaacson, it was brought out this afternoon, on the death of her husband was awarded the widow's third of his estate, extensive farm holdings, the remainder going to her sons. An administrator was appointed and has disposed of a portion of the sons' share. Mrs. Isaacson contends that the property was left to her entire and has made considerable trouble in the attempt of the administrator to secure the two-thirds production of the property still held. Witnesses testified that in their opinion she thought she was the sole owner of the property and at various times had sought to collect the entire income of the tract. Testimony today was wholly non-export.

Following were the jurors who were called upon to pass upon the question of the aged woman's sanity: J. R. Caldwell, D. King, George Turk, Aaron Mead, George Conroy, and William McVicar.

VOTING BY MAIL IS FAVORED AS AID TO TRAVELING SALESMEN

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 5.—Assemblyman Carl Hanson appeared before the elections committee of the assembly yesterday afternoon in favor of a bill introduced by Assemblyman Peters providing a system of voting by mail. He said that the bill was favored by the traveling men. Mr. Hanson read the provisions of the bill and decided it was allowed to be put on his vote, back there would be a larger vote at every election. This alone he believed would justify the bill.

A similar bill was urged by Assemblyman John B. Hahn of Madison. He said that Minnesota had a law of this nature and from the reports he had received it was working out satisfactorily. Several members of the committee indicated their interest in the question, that they were not entirely satisfied that such a law would maintain the purity of the ballot box.

BLAMES CAT FOR SHIP'S LOSS

Captain Says Feline on Schooner Was Cause of Collision Off Hatteras.

Newport News, Va.—Capt. Roland F. Quillen, whose three-masted schooner William J. Quillen, was sunk off Cape Hatteras, after a collision with the Norwegian steamer Laly, never again will take a cat to sea. He attributed the accident, which nearly cost his life and the lives of the eight members of his crew, to a gray cat which he had aboard.

"I've shipped for 25 years, and always have taken along dogs," Captain Quillen said. "Just before I started from Baltimore for Mayport, Fla., somebody stole my dog. So I got a cat, a gray cat. Cats are bad luck. I guess. This was my first accident. The cat was lost."

Careless Omission Costly.

A "monkey-wrench" mechanic will often omit placing cotter pins or retaining wires in the crown nuts of the motor transmission case or differential housing. Should one of these nuts shake off it will more than likely get into the gear mesh and break up the whole mechanism.

PURE BLOOD

The Greatest Blessing Mankind Can Have.

Millions of people need this powerful vegetable remedy that puts the digestive organs in fine condition; that clears the skin of pimples, rash, blemishes and eczema; that dissolves boils and carbuncles; that makes nerves stronger and sturdier and gives to pale, weak, rundown people the fullest measure of health and happiness.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, free from alcohol or narcotics and extracted from roots and barks with pure glycerine, does just what is stated above, simply because it banishes from the blood all poison and impure matter. It dissolves the impure deposits and carries them out, as it does all impurities, through the liver, bowels, kidneys and skin. If you have indigestion, sluggish liver, backache over the kidneys, nasal or other catarrh, untidy nerves or unsightly skin, get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery today and start at once to replace your impure blood with the kind that puts energy and ambition into you and brings back youth and vigorous action.

All medicine dealers can supply you in either liquid or tablet form or send fifty cents for box of Tablets to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Write for free booklet on Blood.—Advertisement.

A GREAT OFFER.

If you will cut this out and send 3 dimes to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., you will receive a 1,000-page book, bound in handsome cloth, fully illustrated, all charges prepaid.—Advertisement.

Fresh Air is Life.

No man ever successfully made love when he had a cold in the head. Also no man ever devised a great business scheme when he had asthma. Adenoids, enlarged tonsils, defective hearing, myopia, often come from bad sanitary conditions that weaken the individual, until the germs of disease get him in their despotical clutches.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the system and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Lime Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption): "Under the systematic continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of tuberculous lesions undergo an exudation or partial consolidation in the lungs, which then resorbed would appear to contribute to the walling off and closing of the lesions. Hand in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up, the tuberculous nodules finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Medical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alternative. Since calcium is a constituent of the remedy for pulmonary tuberculosis and allied throat and bronchial affections, its healing power may in some measure be attributed to the fact that it is easily assimilated and combined with other ingredients as it is easily assimilated by the average person and it does not irritate the stomach.

Eckman's Alternative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. If your druggist is out of it, ask him to order, or send direct to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.

Sold by Smith Drug Co., McClellan & Busch and People's Drug Co., in Janesville.

"Here!" roared Mr. Rocksworth. "Stop this beastly noise! What the deuce do you mean, sir, permitting these scoundrels to raise the dead like this?"

I moved forward apologetically. "They are raising the dead. The place is fairly alive with dead rats and—"

"Good Lord!" gasped Riley-Werkheimer. "We'll get the bubonic plague here."

"Well, let's move on upstairs," said Rocksworth. Addressing the porters, he said: "You fellows get this lot of stuff together, and I'll take an option on it. I'll be over tomorrow to close the deal, Mr.—Mr.—Now, where is the old Florentine mirror the count was telling us about?"

"The count?" said I, frowning. "Yes, the real owner. You can't stuff me with your talk about being the proprietor here, my friend. You see, we happen to know the count."

They all condescended to laugh at me. I don't know what I should have said or done if Britton had not returned with a box of matches at that instant.

Almost simultaneously there appeared in the lower hall a lanky youth of eighteen.

"Say, these clubs are the real stuff. All right, all right. They're as brittle as glass. See what I'd do 'em. We can have 'em spliced and rewound, and I'll hang 'em on my wall. All I want is the heads anyhow."

He held up to view a headless midiron and brassie and triumphantly waved a splendid cleek. My favorite clubs! I could play better from a hanging line with that beautiful brassie than with any club I ever owned, and, as for the iron, I was deadly with it.

He lit a cigarette and threw the match into a pile of shavings. Old Conrad returned to life at that instant and stamped out the incipient blaze.

"I shouldn't consider them very good clubs, Harold, if they break off like that," said his mother.

"What do you know about clubs?" he snapped, and I at once knew what class he was in at the preparatory school.

If I was ever like one of these, said I to myself, God rest the sage soul of my Uncle Rilas!

The situation was no longer humorous. I could put up with anything, but the mishandling of my devoted golf clubs.

Striding up to him, I snatched the remnants from his hands.

"You infernal cub!" I roared. "Haven't you any more sense than to smash a golf club like that? For two cents I'd break this putter over your head."

"Father," he yelled indignantly, "who is this mucker?"

Mr. Rocksworth bounced toward me, his cane raised. I whirled upon him.

"How dare you?" he shouted. The ladies squealed.

If he expected me to cringe he was mightily mistaken. My blood was up. I advanced.

"Paste him, dad!" roared Harold.

But Mr. Rocksworth suddenly altered his course and put the historic treaty table between him and me. He didn't like the appearance of my rather brawny fist.

"You big stiff!" shouted Harold.

Afterward it occurred to me that this inelegant appellation may have been meant for his father, but at the time I took it to be aimed at me.

Before Harold quite knew what was happening to him he was prancing down the long hall with my bony fingers grasping his collar. Coming to the door opening into the outer vestibule, I drew back my foot for a final aid to locomotion. Acutely recalling the fact that slippers are not designed for kicking purposes, I raised my foot, removed the slipper and laid it upon a taut section of his trousers with all of the melancholy force that I usually exert in slicing my drive off the tee. I shall never forget the exquisite spasm of pleasure his plaintive "Ouch!" gave me.

Then Harold passed swiftly out of my life.

"How dare you!" he shouted.

Mr. Rocksworth, re-enforced by four reluctant mercenaries in the shape of porters, was advancing upon me. Somehow I had a vague but unerring instinct that some one had fainted, but I didn't stop to inquire. Without much ado I wrested the cane from him and sent it scuttling after Harold. "Now get out!" I roared. "You shall pay for this!" he spluttered, quite black in the face. "Grab him, you infernal cowards!" But the four porters slunk away, and Mr. Rocksworth faced me alone. Rudolph and Max, thoroughly fed and most prodigious, were bearing down upon us, accounting for the light of the mercenaries.

"Get out!" I repeated. "I am the owner of this place, Mr. Rocksworth, and I am mad through and through. Skip!" They skipped.

CHAPTER IV.

I Converse With a Mystery.

LATE in the afternoon I opened my door, hoping that the banging of hammer and the buzz of industry would have ceased; but, alas, the noise was even more deafening than before. Eysing Britton in the gloomy corridor, I shouted to him, and he came at once.

"Britton," said I as he closed the door, "do you think they will carry out their threat to have the law on me? Mr. Rocksworth was very angry—and put out. He is a power, as you know."

"I think you are quite safe, sir," said he. "Shortly before 2, sir, one of the porters from the hotel came over to recover a gold purse Mrs. Riley-Werkheimer had dropped in the excitement, and he informed Mr. Poopen-dyke that the whole party was leaving at 4 for Dresden."

Later on, somewhat refreshed and relieved, I made my way to the little balcony, first having issued numerous orders and directions to the still stupefied Schmicks, chief among which was an inflexible command to keep the gates locked against all comers.

Suddenly as I sat there ruminating I became acutely aware of something white on the ledge of the topmost window in the eastern tower. Even as I fixed my gaze upon it something else transpired. A cloud of soft, wavy, luxurious brown hair eclipsed the narrow white strip and hung with spreading splendor over the casement ledge plainly, indubitably to dry in the sun.

My neighbor had washed her hair! And it was really a most wonderful head of hair. I can't remember ever having seen anything like it except in the advertisements.

What a glorious, appealing, sensuous thing a crown of hair—but just then Mr. Poopen-dyke came to my window.

"May I interrupt you for a moment, Mr. Smart?" he inquired, as he squinted at me through his ugly bone-rimmed glasses.

"Come here, Poopen-dyke," I commanded in low, excited tones. He hesitated. "You won't fall off," I said sharply.

Although the window is at least nine feet high, Poopen-dyke stooped as he came through. He always does it, no matter how tall the door. It is a lifelong habit with him. Have I mentioned that my worthy secretary is six feet four and as thin as a reed? I remember speaking of his knees. He is also a bachelor.

"It is a dreadful distance down there," he murmured, nattering himself against the wall and closing his eyes.

A pair of slim white hands at that instant indolently readjusted the thick mass of hair and quite as casually disappeared. I failed to hear Mr. Poopen-dyke's remark.

"I think, sir," he proceeded, "it would be a very good idea to get some of our correspondence off our hands. A great deal of it has accumulated in the past few weeks. I wish to say that I am quite ready to attend to it whenever—"

"Time enough for letters," said I, still staring.

"First of all, we must have a ladder," I went on. "Have you seen to that?"

"A ladder?" he faltered, putting one foot back through the window in a most suggestive way.

"Oh," said I, remembering. "I haven't told you, have I? Look! Up there, in that window. Do you see that?"

"What is it, sir? A rug?"

"Rug! Great Scott, man, don't you know a woman's hair when you see it?"

"I've never—or never seen it—you might say—just like that. Is it hair?"

"It is. You see it don't you?"

"How did it get there?"

"Good! Now I know I'm not dreaming. Come! There's no time to be lost. We may be able to get up there before she hears us!"

I instructed old Conrad to have the tallest ladder brought to me in the courtyard at once.

"There is no such thing about the castle," he announced blandly.

"Where are your sons?" I demanded. The old couple held up their hands in great distress.

"Herr Britton has them wearing their souls out, turning a windlass outside the gates—such, that terrible invention of his!" groaned old Conrad. "My poor sons are faint with fatigue, mein Herr. You should see them perspire and hear their pant for breath."

Happily a new idea struck me almost at once.

In a jiffy half a dozen carpenters were at work constructing a substantial ladder out of scoundings, while I stood over them in serene command of the situation.

When the ladder was completed I mounted to the top and peered through the sashless window. It was quite black and repelling beyond. Instructing Britton and the two brothers to follow me in turn, I clambered over the wide stone sill and lowered myself gingerly to the floor.

I will not take up the time or the space to relate my experiences on this first fruitless visit to the east wing of my abiding place. Suffice to say, we got as far as the top of the stairs in the vast middle corridor after stumbling through a series of dim, damp rooms, and then found our way effectually blocked by a stout door which was not only locked and bolted, but bore a most startling admonition to would-be trespassers.

Pinned to one of the panels there was a dainty bit of white note paper, with these satiric words written across its surface in a bold feminine hand:

"Please keep out. This is private property."

Most property owners no doubt would have been incensed by this calm defiance on the part of a squatter, either male or female, but not I. The very impudence of the usurper appealed to me. What could be more delicious than her serene courage in dispossessing me with the stroke of a pen of at least two-thirds of my domicile, and what more exciting than the thought of waging war against her in the effort to regain possession of it? Really it was quite glorious! Here was a happy, enchanting bit of feudalism that stirred my romantic soul to its very depths.

We returned to the courtyard and held a council of war. I put all of the Schmicks on the grill, but they stubbornly disclaimed all interest in or knowledge of the extraordinary occupant of the east wing.

"We can smoke her out, sir," said Britton.

"I could scarcely believe my ears," Britton said severely. "You are a brute. I am surprised. You forget there is an innocent babe, maybe a collection of them, over there and a dog. We shan't do anything heathenish, Britton. Please bear that in mind. There is but one way—we must storm the place. I will not be defied by my very nose."

"I felt it to see if it was not a little out of joint. 'It is a good nose.'"

"It is, sir," said Britton. And Poopen-dyke in a perfect ecstasy of loyalty shouted, "Long live your nose, sir!"

My German vassals waved their hats, perceiving that a demonstration was required without in the least knowing what it was about.

That night was very black and tragic, swift storm clouds having raced up to cover the moon and stars. With a radiant lantern in the window he bind me, I sat down with my pen and my pipe and my pencil. The storm was not far away.

I was scribbling away in serene content for the physical world when there came to my ears a sound that gave me a greater shock than any streak of lightning could have produced and yet left sufficient life in me to appreciate the sensation of being electrified.

A woman's voice, speaking to me out of the darkness and from some point quite near at hand!

"I beg your pardon, but would you mind doing me a very slight favor?" Those were the words, uttered in a clear, sweet, perfectly confident voice, as of one who never asked for favors, but exacted them.

I looked about me, blinking, utterly bewildered. No one was to be seen. She laughed. Without really meaning to do so, I also laughed—nervously, of course.

"Can't you see me?" she asked. I looked intently at the spot from which the sound seemed to come—a perfectly solid stone block less than three feet from my right shoulder. It must have been very amusing. She laughed again. I flushed resentfully.

"Where are you?" I cried out rather tartly.

"I can see you quite plainly, and you are very ugly when you scowl, sir. Are you scowling at me?"

"I don't know," I replied truthfully, still searching for her. "Does it seem so to you?"

"Yes."

"Then I must be looking in the right direction," I cried impolitely. "You must be, ah—"

My straining eyes had located a small, oblong blotch in the curve of the tower not more than twenty feet from where I stood, and on a direct line with my balcony. True, I could not at first see a face, but as my eyes grew a little more accustomed to the darkness, I fancied I could distinguish a shadow that might pass for one.

"I didn't know that little window was there," I cried, puzzled.

"It isn't," she said. "It is a secret loophole, and it isn't here except in times of great duress. See, I can close it." The oblong blotch abruptly disappeared, only to reappear an instant later. I was beginning to understand. Of course it was in the beleaguered east wing! "I hope I didn't startle you a moment ago."

I resolved to be very stiff and formal about it. "May I inquire, madam, what you are doing in my nook—my castle?"

"You may."

"Well," said I, seeing the point. "What are you doing here?"

"I am living here," she answered distinctly.

"So I perceive," said I, rather too distinctly.

"And I have come down to ask a simple, tiny little favor of you, Mr. Smart," she resumed.

"You know my name?" I cried, surprised.

"I am reading your last book—Are you going?"

"Just a moment, please," I called out, struck by a splendid idea. Reaching inside the window, I grasped the lantern and brought its rays to bear upon the—perfectly blank wall! I stared open mouthed and unbelieving. "Good heaven! Have I been dreaming all this?" I cried aloud.

The Record Janesville is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ills and is looking for an effective kidney medicine, better depend on the remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills have given great satisfaction in such cases. Janesville citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

J. W. Roberts, 223 Park St., Janesville, says: "For years I had trouble from irregular and painful action of my kidneys. I had to get up at night and in the morning I felt tired out. My back ached and I had sore spots over my kidneys. I could hardly straighten after stooping over. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved the pains and put my kidneys in fine shape. I no longer had to get up at night and I felt fine in the morning."

Another Message To the Business Men of Janesville

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings. Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend

Dinner Stories

Mr. Chilson advertised for a colored chauffeur and a dapper young fellow made his appearance.

"Where are you from?" asked Mr. Chilson.

"I'm from the first state in the Union, sah," replied the colored man, drawing himself up proudly.

"New York?" asked the other.

"Oh, no, sah," answered the negro. "Alabama, sah."

"But," said Chilson, "Alabama isn't the first state in the Union."

"Alphabetically speaking, sah," was the reply, "alphabetically speaking."

An old circus man tells this one: "The usual crowd of small boys was gathered about the entrance of the tent in a town in Illinois. A benevolent-looking old gentleman standing nearby watched them for a few minutes with a beaming eye. Then, walking up to the ticket-taker, he said, with an air of authority: 'Let all these boys in, and count 'em as they pass.'"

"The gatekeeper, thinking that the benevolent-looking old gentleman was indulging in a bit of philanthropy, did as requested. When the last lad had gone in, he turned and announced: 'Twenty-four, sir.'"

"Good," said the benevolent-looking old gentleman, as he walked away. "I thought I guessed right."

"Where were you last night?" asked one girl of another.

"I was out riding with father in his car."

"But I didn't know your father had an automobile."

"He hasn't; he is a motorman."

The Corn of Long Ago.

Many ways of cooking corn are known, but the simpler are the better. A sturdy race of pioneers thrived on mush and milk and corn pone and hoe cake. Civilization and luxury have led the children of these pioneers to look with disdain on corn, and to prefer to secure its great health-giving properties through other mediums. We have been taking our corn by way of pork and beef—Mayville (Ky.) Bulletin.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, and leading to marasmus, which must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisphosphated magenta, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bisphosphated magenta, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.—Advertisement."

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on dragging their stomachs and stuffing it with greasy foods: rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol, through its regenerative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, how about your neck, shoulders, and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Leading druggists of Janesville and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found on every package.

Caution!—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach trouble, it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.—Advertisement.

How the modern woman has made herself felt in southern Wisconsin during the last year was the burden of talk at the concluding session of the thirteenth annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, which was held in the First Methodist church, Beloit.

A record of concrete community uplift was given by Mrs. A. P. Rote, Monroe, Wis., who showed how the women of that place helped to solve a formidable garbage question. Inspiration for all delegates was furnished by the annual address of Mrs. Woods, the president, and by individual reports from all clubs represented. It was through the latter and reports of standing committees that the most profitable interchange of ideas took place.

Live Subjects Suggested.

These reports from the clubs occupied the most of the morning and kept the women of the art and drama societies, when final adjournment took place. Mrs. Merriman, reporting for the North End Thursday club of Beloit, caused considerable discussion by advising the women to bring their babies to the clubs with them when necessary. She said that the babies of the Thursday club are both well-behaved and congenial. Many well-subjects for club meetings were suggested, some of which were "Can We Educate Girls to Good Taste in Their Clothes?" by Mrs. Wheeler of Whitewater. Another woman urged that the clubs take up immediately the fumigating, disinfecting and breeding-prevention of flies.

Boosted Badger Goods.

"Make Made in Wisconsin" your shipping slogan," said Mrs. West, Milton, in the report of the home economics committee. Mrs. Merriman, Beloit, chairman of the educational committee, urged censorship of films, carnivals and amusements. Mrs. Hiram Murdoch, Janesville, reported for the reciprocity committee. Mrs. L. J. Dickinson, Edgerton, for the civics committee. The membership committee reported five new clubs as members of federations during the last year, making a total of thirty-five clubs.

Tells of Garbage Work.

By far the most interesting feature of this morning's session was the report of Mrs. A. P. Rote, Monroe, on the garbage problem of her town. She read one of the convention favorites, Mrs. Rote. This paper of Mrs. Rote's will be given in full in the next issue.

JANESVILLE LADY IN POST OF HONOR

Mrs. E. F. Woods, as president of District Federation presiding over the two days' proceedings with dignity and tact, and won all parties by her gracious ease of manner. The office carried with it much hard work, but Mrs. Woods was able to keep to her feet, and to cooperate with her by inviting her to meet with them at least once during the club year that they may become better acquainted and so work in better harmony were guests. Part of her annual address to the convention is given as follows:

"With honor comes responsibility in any organization and especially in the Federation—responsibility of officers and members alike. How frequent it is that honor is assumed and responsibility forgotten.

"The division of the clubs holding membership in the state federation into two districts has many advantages. First, we can more effectively promote the activities fostered by the larger body; second, the district convention is in fact a training school where women are strengthened in spirit and purpose to aid the state-wide movements; and third, the district convention serves to bring into that district the clubs included in it.

"Unfederated clubs ask us, 'Why federate? What can we benefit by federation?' Those of us who have been longest in the work have learned to answer, 'We have joined to help and be helped. Recognition of ideas brings a broader outlook on life, broader charity and a more tolerant spirit.'

"Characteristics of the ideal clubwoman who is really accomplishing things are many, but among the most essential are punctuality, constancy, a knowledge of parliamentary order, responsibility, democracy, respect for the majority rule, and, above all, loyalty to her club, its officers and its members.

"The club is chiefly valuable because the interest of its members is aroused in the civic life of not only the community but also of the state nation. A study of current events, training in home economics and city government, discussion of world problems, the acquiring of lofty ideals are fitting the woman to her place in the world. Let us remember the motto, 'Let us join hands and help, for today we are all alive together.'

"The state president of the federation, Mrs. Kinsman, said in part, 'To effect the plan of the various activities of the federation and to promote the things it fosters, we need a state endowment fund of at least $10,000, approximately $2,000 but that amount in proportion to the work we are trying to do is small. There are now about 10,000 members in the state federation. Couldn't each one of us contribute $1 to the fund without great hardship?'

"Consider the home as the center of all your activities, for history teaches us that things built for service through the ages have survived indifference, ignorance and selfishness. If we would go forward toward the future, let us trust in Him who teaches us not to be ministered unto but to minister.

"In speaking of the departments of administration in the state federation, Mrs. Kinsman dealt at length on the following: Municipal extension department, legislative committee, reference library, literature committee, press committee and country life committee.

"Social Hygiene" was the topic of Dr. Rachelle Yarros of Hull House, Chicago. "Regenerate human nature," said Dr. Rachelle Yarros, "if you are to successfully combat the dread terror of social diseases. Exterminate the 'red-light' district, if there is one in your city, for the house of ill-fame is the pest-house wherein the germs of social diseases are bred. But above all, mothers—and fathers, too—must train their children to handle the precious instinct of race preservation to cherish and admire it. Until recently we have placed that subject on a pedestal and have done nothing to save talk to children about the glories of motherhood, and less frequently about the duties of fatherhood. The subject into the dust, as it were, as a thing to be despised. Now, I say it is time that mothers and fathers talked to their children straight from the shoulder.

"Dr. Yarros devoted her opening remarks to an introduction of her subject at hand, saying that when the idea of social hygiene was first introduced about ten years ago by a prominent New York physician, a subject of 1,000 invitations to attend a discussion only twenty were accepted.

"But," said the speaker, "only four years later at the convention of the General Federation of Women in Cincinnati, I obtained permission to talk for four minutes on the subject of social hygiene. To be sure that certain repugnance of the subject has not become less in the minds of the majority of women, but I fearlessly laid bare the facts of the subject as I had found them in my profession. It was through that convention passed a resolution establishing the first special committee on social hygiene. Women were ready to see the truth! The Wisconsin Federation has no special committee on social hygiene, and I don't believe it has—it is time that you women awakened to the situation. I will do all in my power to assist your president in the matter.

"The argument that social diseases always have existed and consequently always will be fallacious and should not be heeded by thinking men and women. Doesn't it mean something to you to learn that a prominent physician has said that 100,000 men in New York City are affected with social disease, that from between 20 and 40 per cent of the men, 18 to 24 years old, are affected with either one or the other of these terrible scourges. It is a challenge! And the horror of it all is that the germs can be carried by an infected person for over twenty years and by blood tests it has been proven beyond a doubt that the man or woman who has sinned usually passes the disease on to posterity!

"Women should not think that social diseases are prevalent only among sinful men and those poor, wayward women. Social diseases are transmitted to innocent women because of the different standards of morals maintained by the majority of men.

"N. B. Some of these reports were taken from the Beloit Daily News, which gave a very full account of the meetings.

This report of Miss Post awakened much interest in the convention and is given in full.

Report of the work of the Social Center of Fulton community. Previous to the annual church meeting of the Congregational church at Fulton about two years ago, there was no discussion to the organization of a Social Center in that community. Dr. Keller, state superintendent of Congregational churches in Wisconsin, suggested such a group in Fulton and the surrounding country. A committee of three was appointed to make arrangements for the meetings and a supper and organization meetings were planned for two weeks. This meeting was largely attended, and about fifty signers were elected. President, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and committees for the different phases of the work—finance, social, sports and games.

As to the plans which the committee decided to carry out. The meetings were to be held every two weeks during the winter months, and once a month during the summer. They were to be held in the local hall in Fulton, owned by the ladies of the church. There were to be speakers from outside, and work by local talent, usual in the meetings. After each talk there was to be an open meeting for discussion, and an opportunity to ask questions of the speaker. After the adjournment of the business meeting a social time was to be enjoyed by everyone.

The actual work of the center was to be carried on by speakers from the University of Wisconsin Extension Division; Whitewater normal; Edgerton business men, and, as I have said before, local talent. To give you an idea of the speakers we have had I will name a few representative people: Mr. Haugen of the tax commission of Madison; Mr. Humphrey of the dairy department of the university; Mr. Stone of the extension department; Mr. Halpin of the poultry department; Miss Kelley of the home economics department; Mr. Watson of the library of the Whitewater normal; and discussions on the growing of alfalfa, and kindred subjects of interest to a farming community by the young people, and debates on topics of current interest by men and women of the community.

The social side of the center has been carried on through the medium of the Fulton social center, which has charge has been made, encouraged to carry on the work financially; a community picnic last summer, which did much toward the friendly 'mixing' of a large group of people, and a successful county fair this winter. These 'stunts' have enabled the group to 'make ends meet' successfully, after paying the expenses of the speakers, etc. By the way, the speakers from out of town have all come for their mere expenses.

The definite work accomplished by the Fulton social center is hard to estimate, of course, but perhaps the most important thing is that a class of people has been interested that have not been in touch with any phase of community work before. A county Y. M. C. A. organization of about forty members has been started partially through the 'pushing' of the social center. They are now planning to form a Boys' Baseball League, with practice on Saturday afternoons. They believe that the boys in that way will use up their superfluous energy and will not feel the need of Sunday baseball playing. Then there have been a number of improvements made on the hall where the meetings have been held. The roof of the hall has been shingled and there are now contemplated putting in a hard wood floor.

I am very glad indeed to have had the opportunity of telling you about our little social center group at Fulton, and hope that the movement will continue to spread, for it fills a long-felt need in a country community. Evelyn M. Post.

CIVIC LEAGUE.

Aside from the regular business of the meeting, in hearing reports and appointing committees, the Civic League in its meeting of May 3 heard two very interesting informal talks, one by Miss Helen Welch of the Educational committee, on the censorship of moving pictures, and one by Mrs. Sue Lowell Hibbard in favor of a Y. W. C. A. for Janesville.

Miss Welch took up briefly the three kinds of censorship—local, state, and federal—giving the opinion of students of the question that none could be efficacious under present conditions, because of the great number of pictures to be censored, the expense of the censorship, and the difficulty of finding critics specially fitted for their task. She then explained briefly what the National Board of Censorship is, since there are many of us who do not understand clearly its scope and power. It is a voluntary body, administered by the People's Institute of New York, composed of the members of the professional people, and others interested in motion picture problems—no member of it engaged in the moving picture industry and no member salaried. It is an organization deriving sole power from the good will of the film companies whose pictures it censors, and from the co-operation of the public. The work of the board is made difficult not only by the commercial purposes of enforcing its views, but because of the composite character of the audience for which it criticizes the films. There is the specialized demand as yet, so that each picture must be a compromise between the demands of the child and adult. The board, however, takes into account that about fifteen per cent of the audience picture audience is made up of children under sixteen, and that they are especially susceptible to suggestion in pictures, and it tries to determine the influence of the pictures on such minds and to judge accordingly. Its work is constructive, lying chiefly in preventing the manufacture of undesirable films. It attempts to educate the juvenile mind by the people, adapting itself to their shifting standards. And to raise the standard is the work of the board. The work of all is to use the influence of the pictures for other than commercial purposes in the school for instance—and by informing ourselves as thoroughly of the influence of the motion picture as we can. There is a great need of a demand for the best in motion pictures, the only force ever really effective in lifting any business above a level.

The bulk of the meeting was taken up with the discussion of the proposed Girls' club or Y. W. C. A. for Janesville. Rev. Parson spoke, urging the immediate organization of such an organization, and Mrs. Hibbard gave her testimony in favor of a Y. W. C. A. She spoke from a wide experience in the Y. W. C. A. work in college, city and country, and felt strongly the advantages of the Y. W. C. A. over other organizations for a girl's club. She felt, in fact, that the Y. W. C. A. was open to all classes of young women, whether working girls or club might not be. She felt, too, that it had a continuity of service which could be made effective through trained workers available and through the use of a strongly established material organization which had years of successful experience behind it. She discussed the great variety of activities included in the Y. W. C. A.; those administering to the physical comfort of the girls—the cafeteria, the rest room, the swimming and gymnasium, the use of these for the needs of mental life and of recreation—the lectures, the summer camps and conferences, the educational classes, and those aiding in finding a livelihood for the girls, the employment bureau chief among them. Its aim, then, is not narrow, but broadly inclusive. Mrs. Hibbard spoke briefly of the added advantage of the Christian basis of the Y. W. C. A. work, feeling it to be of parallel importance with the advantage of long-established organization and valuable material offered. She concluded by suggesting that the league visit other organizations, and get an expert here to talk to the people and to help organize the work. Possible dissenting opinions in regard to the greater freedom of membership in an organization, without an evangelical basis or in regard to the possibility of including most of the advantages of the Y. W. C. A. in a less formally organized club were invited in to the discussion but no opposed opinion was expressed.

The meeting closed with the appointment of a committee of five to work with a committee of the civic council in organizing the work for some kind of a club so that a definite report might be ready for the first meeting in June.

PICTURES CHINA IN TRANSITION PERIOD

Rev. Charles E. Ewing in Fine Address at Methodist Brotherhood Banquet Last Evening.

Vividly picturing the commercial, educational, social, religious and political changes in China during the period of transition, Rev. Charles E. Ewing, pastor of the First Congregational church in this city, presented an able address last evening before the members of the Cargill Methodist church brotherhood and their wives and lady friends at the closing banquet of the season.

Dr. Ewing was in China for a time during this period, especially during the political change, when the monarchy was buried in favor of the new republic.

"Now is the time," said the speaker, "for the United States to make the best of her opportunity to do for China what the Chinese people need, not only in this country but in China. The revolution in China, which looks to America for guidance and leadership. She sends students to the United States, from a graduate school organized in that country. These graduates return to China to be the inspired leaders of new China. American missionaries and other American people have established high educational institutions in China, the graduates from these schools are among the best people of China. The graduates become so imbued with American ideals as to be intelligent leaders in almost any line, for their new republic."

The speaker discussed first the commercial change, stating that not until steam power on the sea was in commerce with China, did the real water route was possible after the circumnavigation of the world, but was not wholly satisfactory. Today we find China importing from America cotton cloths for clothes, wheat flour for their staple diet and kerosene oil to burn in modern American lamps.

The educational change was important. For the past fifteen years the movement to do away with the old method of studying classics and writing examinations became in vogue, and today the Chinese have established a system of modern education, which, by the way, is yet far from complete. A Chinese child can go through school now from kindergarten to university, the main principle being founded on the western idea of learning. In inducting into China the new educational system, the credit for this work practically goes to American education.

The social change is an amusing one as well as a practical one. The styles in vogue in China are much the same as in America. The hair dress has experienced a big change. The people are eager to adopt new things, be it family unit or no more, and oftentimes boys go away from home to school, with the betrothals seldom carried out today.

In religion China has a system of thought that includes the religious aspect. The system has been inevitable into the hands of other religions persecuted. But on February 12, 1912, the republic took the place of the monarchy, bringing about an absolute change on intolerance. Now China became tolerant and the eyes of the country were opened to new religious ideas.

The cause for political change was due largely to the discontent under the Manchurian dynasty. October 11, 1911, a revolution broke out. The civil war lasted but four months after which the dynasty was abdicated. The new republic was brought on by the aid of diplomatic ability of Yuan Shih-kai, former premier, and now president of the new republic.

There were about one hundred couples at the banquet and the music furnished by the orchestra from a school for the blind was of a high order. The speakers appreciated the solos that were appreciated. D. D. Manross acted as chairman for the evening.

Government Still Fighting The Hoof and Mouth Disease

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, May 5.—Though believing the foot and mouth disease epidemic practically wiped out in the United States, the Agriculture Department is not relaxing vigilance. Like typhoid fever, its victims sometimes spread infection after they themselves are cured and it will be some time yet before the quarantine will be lifted entirely.

Defending the slaughter of more than 100,000 animals during the war on the disease, the department cites the case of Germany where the disease has been allowed to gain such a hold at times that the slaughter of exposed animals could not be resisted. In 1911, for example, it was estimated that there were 3,356,369 head of cattle, 1,602,927 sheep, 2,555,271 hogs and 53,674 goats suffering from the disease in Germany, making the pestiferous a perpetual drain on the farmers. There are more than three times as many of these animals in the United States as in Germany and the consequences of allowing the disease to get such a foothold are obvious.

While the exact origin of the recent epidemic is still unknown, the first case was discovered in Michigan. Skimmed milk returned from a creamery in the southern part of the state to be fed to hogs resulted in the hogs being stricken. A shipment of these hogs infected the Chicago stockyards and other shipments passing through the stockyards carried the infection as far west as Washington and as far east as Massachusetts. The South and Southwest escaped because practically all shipments were from, rather than to, these sections.

The Agriculture Department is keeping busy explaining to inquirers that the last Congress did not pass rural credits legislation, further than to name a committee of the House and Senate to draft a bill to be presented at the next session. This committee will have all the information collected by the department in the past two years. It is expected that a bill providing for rural credits will be enacted early in the session.

Advice for hogs and pigs concerning setting hens, given out by the department, is as follows:

As the time approaches for the hens to become broody, or sit, if care is taken to look in the nests it will be seen that there are a few soft downy feathers left there by the hens; also, that the hens stay longer in the nests when laying at this time and, on being approached, quite likely will remain on the nest, rumpling up their feathers and pecking at the intruder. When it is noticed that the hen sits on the same nest for two or three nights in succession, she is ready to be transferred to a nest which should be prepared in advance. This should be in a box and should be composed of straw, hay or chaff for nesting material. Pack this material down firmly and shape a circular nest out of it which should be slightly deeper in the center than around the edges to prevent the eggs from rolling out from under the hen and becoming chilled. Dust the hen thoroughly with insect powder. In applying the powder hold the hen head downward, working the powder well into the feathers, giving special attention to the regions around the vent and under the wings. Powder should also be sprinkled around the nest. The nest should be in some quiet, out-of-the-way place, where the sitting hen will not be disturbed. Move her from the regular laying nest at night, handling her carefully in doing so. Put a China egg or two in the nest, and put aboard over the opening so she cannot get off. Toward evening of the second day, quietly go in where she is sitting and leave some feed and water. Remove the board and let the hen come off when she is ready. Should she return to the nest after feeding, remove the china eggs and put in those that are to be incubated. In cool weather it is best not to put in more than 10 eggs, while later in spring one can put in 12 or 15, according to the size of the hen.

Farmers sell their timber too cheap, says the Department of Agriculture, which suggests that farmers, before they sell their wood-lot holdings, should get in touch with the state forester or the state agricultural authorities, and secure advice as to what trees should be cut and, if possible, an estimate of the amount and value of the timber to be sold. It should always be kept in mind, says the department, that the future value of woodland tracts depends on the way the timber is cut.

The department cites the case of a farmer in the Maumee valley, Ohio, who sold for $250 timber which agents of the department afterwards estimated to be worth $1,436 standing.

WEED COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TODAY

City Council Handles Routine and Minor Business at Meeting Yesterday.

Routine transactions were made by the city council in their regular meeting held yesterday afternoon, reports and petitions being received, and the bids on several city contracts were awarded. Discussion was held among the commissioners if a new system should be adopted for furnishing water to Cornelius Murphy and William Boss in turn for the sprinkling service on the streets bordering all the city property in the business district, bridges, intersections and for Sunday service on the main streets.

The two men would pay the water department an agreed sum at the end of the seven or eight months' service and the city make the same payment for the sprinkling, as all receipts for the water department are kept separate from those of the city. A check will be made of the work agreed upon and a report made at a coming meeting on the advisability to adopt the plans.

Thomas McKune and James Senneit were appointed weed commissioners for the west and east side, respectively, for the coming year by Mayor James A. Fathers. The appointments were confirmed. As weed commissioners the two men will have power to serve notice on property owners to cause the removal of all noxious weeds, and in case of default can order the work done by the city and the expense is charged to the property owner.

The contract for the printing of all legal notices and proceedings of the common council was awarded to the Gazette Printing company with a contract of six cents per folio and thirty-five cents a folio for each succeeding insertion. The contract for the painting of the city barn on Wall and Jackson street was awarded to W. J. Hemming for the price of $77, the bid being the lowest of two.

The bond of Dr. S. B. Buckmaster to the amount of one thousand dollars for the office of city health officer was approved and filed.

The report of the police department and the health officer were accepted and filed. The report of the board of education showing expenditures to the amount of $6,864.22 was received and ordered published.

The notice for injury claim filed by Katherine Scanlon was referred to City Attorney Dougherty on the motion of Councilman Roy Cummings. The claim is for injury alleged to have been caused by a coming wagon on Center street, between Cherry and High streets.

City Clerk J. P. Hammariund was instructed to receive bids to furnish the services and labor for the city treasurer to the amount of fifty thousand dollars.

Superintendent of Streets P. J. Goodman was ordered to purchase a new trailer for the oil heating tank, the cost of which should not exceed $165. Commissioner Goodman was

MANY OF HER KIN ON BATTLE FRONT

Footville Lady Receives Letter From Sister in Scotland Telling of Conditions.

Mrs. William Wells, the wife of a farmer living about two and one half miles west of Footville has received an interesting letter from her sister, Agnes Murdoch, who lives in Scotland. The status of families of the British Empire can easily be realized from the account the writer across the sea gives of her kin that are or have been on the battle line along the western front.

The writer lays much stress, it will be noticed in one section of her letter, on the high price of butter and eggs. The communication is appended:

Girharrow, Monivie, Scotland, April 18, 1915.

There is some talk of the war being over by May, do hope so, so it has been an awful time and everything has gone up in price. Eggs are selling (25 cents U. S.) and butter is selling at two pence (23 cents U. S.) a pound and is down to eight pence in a week (16 cents U. S.). Our Aunt Maggie is well but her youngest son was wounded four weeks ago in the war, he is keeping better and will be coming here to see his mother, he is in a hospital near Liverpool. Aunt Eliza and some of her sons have been seening him. My eldest daughter is a nurse in a hospital in Lancashire. England not a great way from where Aunt Maggie's son is, she got a day off last Friday and went to see him. How pleased he was to see someone he knew and Aunt Maggie was pleased also. Our eldest son, who is in the war, was in a hospital in London for five weeks with measles then he got home to see us for ten days, he looked well when dressed in his uniform and my second son is getting along very well but they will not be sent abroad for three months and we hope by that time the war may be over. Our brother, Walter, is back home again from the war, he got discharged as he got his knee cap knocked off and was of no use but it is getting better. He is staying here part of the time and the other part at our brother, David, have had no more word from our brother, Jim, in Canada, but our brother, Walter, had a letter and some photos in it. He is talking of coming through to see us. I do hope the war would settle then the sea would be more safe. Now I think I have no more news at this time I will close with best wishes from all to all. I remain your loving sister, Agnes Murdoch.

the canal and locks. Where two lines of steamers one on each side of the Rapids, were necessary in navigating the river, only one will be needed now.

A pretty feature of the dedicatory exercises was the christening through the breaking of bottles containing water from all the tributaries of the Columbia by a bevy of beautiful girls.

Thousands of persons crowded both sides of the canal during the ceremonies, among them being a committee of senators and congressmen, representing the United States government, the governors and legislative committees from the Pacific Northwestern states.

Preceding the opening ceremonies, a program, including auto trips for the visitors to the fruit districts, a historical and industrial parade, motor boat races and marine sports, was given in this city.

Men who have driven other makes of cars for years—Men who have experimented—Men who have been “stung”—now drive Maxwells.

Right in this town—and all over the country—are men and women who have been driving different makes of cars for years, who now drive and swear by their Maxwells.

Each year they used to buy a different make, trying to find a car which would suit them exactly.

When the 1915 Maxwell “Wonder Car”—with its 17 new features and new low price of $695, was announced—these “motor-wise” men began investigating it.

They didn't take our word or anybody's word for it—they looked into it themselves.

They found the Maxwell to be a handsome, powerful, easy-riding car.

They compared it with cars that sell at double the Maxwell's price. They found that the Maxwell contained every worth-while up-to-date high-priced car feature.

They tested the Maxwell on hills and on the level on really tough roads.

They made it prove its ability to run at low cost over all sorts of roads.

Then they began buying and talking about the Maxwell.

To-day 38,000 enthusiastic people are driving these Maxwells. Of these a great big percentage owned other makes of cars before they bought their Maxwells.

Use your common sense when you buy your automobile. Don't be talked into an extravagant car or a car that hasn't had the “acid test” of time.

Don't let them experiment at your expense.

Read This List of Expensive Features. The 1915 Maxwell Has These Features And Many Others.

Attractive Streamline Body

Pure streamline body; graceful crown tenders, with all rivets concealed. All the grace, style and “snap” that you will find in any of the highest priced cars.

A High-Tension Magneto

Nearly all the high priced cars have high tension magnetos. A high tension magneto gives positive ignition. The Simms magneto, with which the Maxwell is equipped, is recognized as one of the best magnetos made.

Left Side Drive—Central Control

Left side steer with gear shifting levers in center of driving compartment—center control—has been accepted by leading makers of expensive automobiles as the safest and most comfortable for the driver. It is why the Maxwell has it. The Maxwell is so easy to drive and control that a child can handle it.

Three-Speed Sliding Gear Transmission

All high priced cars have a sliding gear transmission. It is costly to make, but it is the best. If the motor has the power, sliding gears will pull the car out of any mud or sand. The Maxwell has a three-speed selective sliding gear transmission. Maxwell engineers do not consider any other type to be worthy of the Maxwell car.

Double-Shell Radiator with Shock Absorbing Device

The Maxwell radiator is of handsome design, gracefully curved, and it is built to be trouble proof. It is the expensive double shell type and has ample cooling capacity. The radiator is mounted to the frame by means of a shock absorbing device on each side, which relieves the radiator of all twists and distortions of the frame, caused by roughness of the road. The shock absorbing device also minimizes the possibility of radiator leaks.

The Roomy Full 5-Passenger Body

The 1915 Maxwell has a full grown 5-passenger body. The front seat is adjustable, you can move it three inches forward or backward. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No cramped legs for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—so fit no one.

Low “Up-keep” Carburetor

The carburetor used on the Maxwell was especially designed for it after long and severe tests under every conceivable condition. Economy tests conducted by hundreds of dealers and owners in different sections of the country have proved its efficiency, its quick response to throttle and its extremely low consumption of gasoline. It has been termed the “low up-keep” carburetor.

Irreversible Steering Gear

The greatest margin of safety has been provided in the steering gear of the 1915 Maxwell. The Maxwell irreversible steering mechanism is of the expensive worm-and-gear type and its superiority over every other type lies in its many adjustments. At no time is more than a fourth of the bearing surface of the gear which operates the worm in use. When needed, a new bearing surface may be had by adjusting the gear a quarter of a turn. In short, the Maxwell steering gear has four times the adjustment of any other kind.

Heavy Car Comfort

What surprises most people is the smooth, buoyant riding quality of the Maxwell. The spring suspension of the 1915 Maxwell is the same costly combination of long semi-elliptical front springs and the three-quarter elliptic rear springs that is used on most heavy weight, high priced cars. The Maxwell offers you every essential of the highest priced machines at a fifth of their cost.

One Size of Tire—Anti-Skide on Rear

The Maxwell car is one of the easiest cars in the world on tires. Maxwell owners carry but one size tire and but one size of spare tubes. Economical 30 inch x 3 1/2 inch tires are used all around. A famous make of anti-skide tires are supplied on rear wheels.

A Dependable Electric Starter

For $55 extra, you can have your Maxwell delivered equipped with the famous Simms-Huff electric starter. This starter is efficient, trouble proof and easily operated.

And the Maxwell is completely equipped from the clear vision, ventilating windshield at the front to the spare tire carrier at the rear. When you buy a Maxwell you have nothing extra to buy.

The Maxwell Company's Guarantee of Service to Maxwell Owners

No other automobile is backed by a more reliable service than that guaranteed every Maxwell owner. ## SUCCESS LETTERS

Being One Of A Series Of Letters From Gratified Want Ad. Users

Janesville, Wis., April 28, 1915.

Gazette Company:

A want ad in the "Too late to classify" column about 10 days ago advertised for sale cheap two Wilton Velvet rugs, giving both phone numbers, through an error our new phone number was given, showing 561 no color, we having 561 Red.

After reaching home at 6:00 p. m. my wife advised that she had answered the phone about eight times since 5:00 p. m.
We had two calls during the supper hour, and from 7:00 to 9:30 p. m. had at least ten calls on the phone inquiring as to the rugs, price, etc., and although we did not have them for sale, it can easily be seen what a little want ad will accomplish.

Yours truly,

HARRY BELL.

CRITICISM RAISED OVER RELIEF FUND

Complaint is Raised Over The Administration of the Prince of Wales National Relief Fund.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, May 5.—Widespread criticism is heard in England over the administration of the Prince of Wales National Relief Fund, which now amounts to $25,000,000. About a third of this has been expended thus far. The criticism comes from two sides. The Workers' National Committee complains that $7,000,000 has been spent in relieving dependents of soldiers and sailors, and only $1,000,000 for the relief of civil distress, which the Committee declares was the principal object of the fund. On the other hand, families of soldiers and sailors complain that there are unreasonable delays in making allowances and payments, and that the administrators of the fund have taken no notice of many cases of genuine distress.

The Workers' National Committee, which is understood to have the backing of the Trades Unions, has asked the Executive Committee of the Fund for a full statement of receipts and expenditures, together with an explanation of the policy which has been pursued in the administration of the fund.

At Glasgow, a serious situation has arisen through a notice circulated a few days ago by the local branch of the Relief Fund Executive Committee, stating that the fund would not continue to pay the weekly rent of 9,000 dependents. The Glasgow secretary at the same time stated that this action was taken against the wish of the local committee which had in good faith made promises to the soldiers' relatives which it was now unable to fulfill.

The defense of the General Executive Committee is thus given in the Times: "The Committee admits that the local administrative machinery for the payment of allowances and allowances is not yet working smoothly. But this work was undertaken only to relieve the unprecedented strain which the war had imposed upon the army pay department, and the Committee hopes that before long the fund will be entirely relieved of this charge upon it."

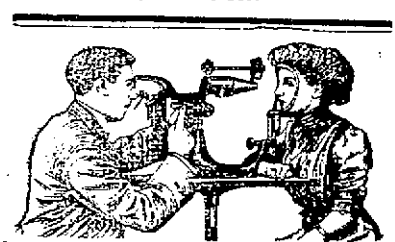

"At the beginning of the war, the army pay office had on its books only 1,500 soldiers' wives. The number entitled to separation allowances is now close to 1,000,000, and they are paid weekly. The number of households granted relief by the fund has been over 500,000. So far as practical, the money thus expended is being recovered from the War Office."

Substantial sums have been granted for the temporary relief of wounded soldiers and sailors, and for the provision of employment and training for the partially disabled. Grants from the fund for the relief of the civil population are made solely on the recommendation of the Government Committee for Prevention and Relief of Distress, of which the President is Herbert Samuel, President of the local Government Board.

"Unemployment, as everyone knows, is much less serious than was anticipated, and it has not been necessary to make any very heavy demands on the fund for the assistance of cases of distress among the civil population. So long as the Government's demand for labor on government work remains unsatisfied, it would be impossible to regard without grave anxiety the continued relief of men and women on relief funds. The Committee therefore urges its local committees to scrutinize carefully the circumstances of all applicants for civil relief."

Job For an Expert.
A gang of navvies were employed on a railway contract removing earth with wheelbarrows. While proceeding with his work one of the navvies noticed that the wheel of his barrow was squeaking terribly, and to put a stop to the noise he turned the barrow over and was in the act of greasing it when the ganger noticed him and shouted out:
"Halloo, O'Brien! Halloo, sir! What the deuce are you doing?"
"I'm greasing my barrow, sir."
"Who told you to do that?"
"Sure, no one, sir. I took it upon myself."
"Well, don't let me catch you at it again. What do you know about machinery?"—Tit-Bits.

ORGANIZE TO RELIEVE TERRIBLE AGONIES OF LITTLE SERBIA

Brave little Serbia, trying to help herself, has had to give up. Three wars in three years have been too much for her. The last invasion of armed troops, sweeping the beautiful countryside bare, driving women and children like cattle into camps where deadly typhus fever now rages, has made a situation too horrible to imagine.

Driven from their homes, thousands of brave Serbian mothers are wanderers in their native land. Their little children, innocent sufferers of the cruel strife, are dying from hunger; grievously wounded men stretched on bales of straw, unable to eat the hard black bread of the regions, are begging for white bread, but there is none for them. Little boys, mere children, are doing men's work among the wounded. Women are serving as stretcher-bearers. Men, torn by shot and shell, plead in vain for fresh dressings for their terrible wounds, but there is not even cotton enough for new bandages. Grim soldiers, worn, hungry and in fierce pain, are submitting to the amputation of their legs and arms without anaesthetics because the supply of drugs has about given out.

Notwithstanding all this suffering, this little nation of brave people has not before asked for help, but now, driven to desperation, dying even, they have turned appealing eyes to America. The heroic Serbian women, worn with grief and suspense and despair, say if they only had seed and simple tools for agriculture they would go out on the devastated land where their homes once were and put in a crop that their children may have bread next winter. But a committee of American citizens says they shall have more; that they shall have food and clothing and medicine and the seeds and tools of agriculture. The cause is headed by Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard, with Breck Trowbridge, of New York, as its chairman. It is called the Serbian Agricultural Relief Committee of America. It is calling on the American people to help it send relief to Serbia quickly. Mme. Slavko Grouitch, an American woman, who is the wife of the permanent under secretary of foreign affairs of Serbia, has come to America to assist her suffering sisters who are across the seas. She says: "Unhappy and glorious Belgium needs so much I don't want one penny from her and I don't want one penny from the poor here in my own deserving country, but if there is anything left, may it not be given to Serbia?"

With her is Miss Helen Lozanitch, daughter of the former minister of agriculture of Serbia, who has nursed in this war, as has also Mme. Grouitch. "When wounded men beg for white bread and there is none to give them, it is frightful," says Miss Lozanitch. "When they ask for medicine and it is not to be had, it is heartrending."

The Serbian Agricultural Relief Committee has its headquarters at 70 Fifth avenue, New York City, where Dr. T. Tilston Wells, a man interested in many humanitarian movements, is in active charge of the relief activities. Dr. Wells says: "The conditions in Serbia have been bad, but they are rapidly getting worse because the people, having been driven from their farms and villages by the Austrian invasion, have been herded in concentration camps where only the bare necessities of food have been available to keep them alive, and where sanitary precautions were impossible. The result has been that typhus fever has now broken out, which is likely to decimate that brave people unless medical help and nourishing food can be rapidly supplied to them."

The bankers for the Serbian agricultural relief movement are J. P. Morgan and Company, and the Bust Terminal, at New York City, has offered to receive shipments of tools, grain and seed. What the committee needs first and worst is money, which may be sent by check and money order, marked "For Serbian Agricultural Relief." If grain and seed and tools are sent, the committee asks that it be advised in advance so that it may be on the lookout for them.

Mme. Grouitch is working literally day and night, visiting cities and organizing relief committees. Cities all over the country are asking her to come and tell them the thrilling stories of Serbia's pitiful sufferings. She can probably visit only those which advise the committee of a desire to assist in the relief movement.

BISHOP WEBB HOLDS ORDINATION IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH AT EVANSVILLE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Evansville, May 5.—The ordination held at St. John's church on Monday morning was one of the most beautiful and impressive ceremonies ever held in the city. The altar with its gleaming lights and abundance of white flowers, the music and the number of clergy in attendance, all combined to make it a notable occasion. A large congregation was present. The Rev. Henry Willmann, rector of the Trinity church, Janesville, was master of ceremonies and Alexander Pfau, of Nashville House, acted as bishop's chaplain.

The choir and clergy formed in procession outside the choir room door and entering the church to the music of the Processional, "Go Forward, Christian Soldiers," marched up the center aisle. The Rev. Walter G. Blossom, rector of St. Stephen's church, Janesville, and formerly in charge of the work at St. John's, preached the ordination sermon, a masterly address which carried conviction to his listeners. It was followed by the presentation of the candidates, Le Roy A. Jahn to the bishop, by Rev. Walter G. Blossom. The service ended with the benediction and the recessional. Our War Rejoinder, The music, which included the hymn known as "St. Patrick's Breast Plate," was very effectively rendered by the choir, assisted by the clergy. A beautiful oak lecturn given by Mr. and Mrs. Will Campbell of Madison, in honor of their daughter, Hazel, was used for the first time, at this service.

Those present from out of town were: Bishop Webb and Rev. Walter G. Blossom of Milwaukee; Rev. Henry Willmann of Janesville; Rev. E. C. Healy, curator of Wisconsin state library, and the Rev. Alexander Pfau and the Rev. Gilbert Heaton Livesey, who are classmates of Mr. Jahn's. Mr. Witte, choir master of Grace church, Madison, was also present.

The Rev. Le Roy A. Jahn has done very faithful work in the seven months in which he has been in charge of St. John's and has made many friends who are not confined to his own church. He will be in residence after June first.

SAYS TYPHUS FEVER MAY BREAK OUT HERE

Dr. John F. Anderson.

Dr. John F. Anderson, in charge of the hygienic laboratory of the U. S. public health service at Washington, has just made the startling statement before the Army Medical school that the dread typhus fever which is now ravaging Serbia is far from being eradicated in the United States and may break out at any time with virulence. Dr. Anderson has had wide experience with typhus, having studied hundreds of cases in Mexico and conducted many experiments with the inoculation of monkeys and guinea pigs.
